

Program Services

For federal reporting purposes, organizations are classified by their primary exempt purpose into twenty-five broad groups using a system called the National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities – NTEE. The table below shows the revenues and assets of 501(c)(3) organizations based in Washington State. Health, philanthropy, education, human services and international activities account for over 80% of the revenues and nearly 90% of the assets, but less than 40% of the organizations. Organizations in the health category are clearly the largest, averaging over $13 million in annual revenues, while organizations in other categories have average revenues ranging from $40,000 to less than $1 million per year.
